

the public. The official comment period ended on August 11, 2015.

The State of Hawaii's environmental impact statement preparation notice (EISPN) was distributed to interested parties for review between December 23, 2013, and January 23, 2014, and again between November 8 and December 8, 2014 (republished to reflect the addition of a second access into the Project site). During the initial public scoping period for the EISPN, three public scoping meetings were held at Kahuku Community Center: on November 13, 2013, January 10, 2014, and November 19, 2014. In addition to the public meetings, a media advisory was sent out prior to each meeting. The State of Hawaii's Department of Land and Natural Resources hosted a public hearing at the Kahuku Community Center on June 4, 2015. The draft EIS was published in the State of Hawaii Office of Environmental Quality Control's The Environmental Notice on June 8, 2015, in accordance with requirements set forth under the Hawaii Environmental Policy Act (HRS § 343-3). Public comments were accepted during the 45-day State public comment period.

Next Steps

We will evaluate the permit application, associated documents, and public comments in reaching a final decision on whether the application meets the requirements of section 10(a) of the ESA (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.). We will evaluate whether the proposed permit action would comply with section 7 of the ESA by conducting an intra-Service section 7 consultation. We will use the results of this consultation, in combination with the above findings, in our final analysis to determine whether or not to issue an ITP. If the requirements are met, we will issue the ITP to the applicant. We will issue a record of decision and issue or deny the ITP no sooner than 30 days after publication of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's notice of availability of the final EIS.

Authority

We provide this notice in accordance with the requirements of section 10(c) of the ESA and its implementing regulations (50 CFR 17.22 and 17.32) and NEPA and its implementing regulations (40 CFR 1506.6).

Consultation

A detailed assessment of the human remains was made by the Museum of the American Indian professional staff in consultation with representatives of the Federated Indians of Graton Rancheria, California.

History and Description of the Remains

Between 1966 and 1967, human remains representing, at minimum, five individuals were removed from site CA-MRN-365, in Novato, Marin County, CA, during field school projects at the Miwok Park. The human remains are eight small fragments that were mixed with faunal collections from the site. During the excavations, several house floors were uncovered and multiple burials were removed. The human remains from these burials were repatriated and reinterred prior to the passage of NAGPRA. The faunal collection was donated to the Museum of the American Indian, and the additional human remains discussed in this notice were discovered during a reevaluation of the faunal collection between 2012 and 2014. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

In 2007, human remains representing, at minimum, five individuals were removed from site CA-MRN-365, in Novato, Marin County, CA, during archeological evaluations for a building project at the Miwok Park by Tom Origer and Associates. The human remains are seven small fragments that were mixed with faunal collections from the site. The human remains were discovered during a reevaluation of the faunal collection between 2012 and 2014. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Site CA-MRN-365 is within the traditional area of the Coast Miwok Indians. It is estimated that the Miwok occupied the site for over 3000 years, though perhaps not continuously. The economy of the area was based on marsh resources with hunting and gathering in this North Coast Range area. The semi-permanent village usually had several family groups that migrated to other seasonal camps throughout the growing season. It is a multi-component site, first documented by Al Elsasser in 1961, with artifact assemblages indicating an occupation from 3000 to 500 years from present date. The site is located along a creek bed and extends about 100 feet along the bank. The site was greatly disturbed by grading for a housing project and the equipment storage area.

In 1966, human remains representing, at minimum, three individuals were removed from site CA-MRN-26, in Tiburon, Marin County, CA, during a salvage project by archeologist John McBeth. The human remains are 17 fragments found in an isolated box. In the 1970s, most of the human remains from this site were transferred to San Francisco State University. The additional human remains discussed in this notice were discovered during the evaluation of the archeological collection between 2012 and 2014. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Prior to 1967, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from site CA-MRN-366, in Novato, Marin County, CA, in an eroded area of the creek. The human remains are a small skull fragment donated to the museum in 1967. No known individuals are present. No associated funerary objects are present.

The Coast Miwok Indians are represented today by the Federated Indians of Graton Rancheria, California.

Determinations Made by the Museum of the American Indian
